Nov. 25. 101. Roger Griffin to Lord Falkland. Troubles him the rather with the enclosed papers, because yesterday there was a great meeting of Anabaptists held at Titmarsh's house, where they used words as seditious as they could find. Repaired to the Mayor, who sent constables and secured them, as they denied the Oath of Allegiance and security for good behaviour. Encloses,

101. 1. Geo. Howe to [Roger Griffin]. Lord Falkland's Captain-Lieut. Robert Fairchild, of Newinhall, was taken up on suspicion, but freed. Found a suspicious letter in the Devon carrier's bag, and searched Mr. Price's bundle, but found nothing. A lieutenant was mortally wounded last night by one of two men, who stopped him, inquired for whom he was, and on his saying for God and King Charles, one said they were for God and green sleeves, and shot him. Barwick, Wiltshire, November 22.
